If you're reading this, you know we survived the February bull sale run! Holy cow, what a whirlwind it has been. We always have to brace ourselves and get ready for long miles, less sleep and looking at lots of great cattle. In the meantime, we have production on our newspaper plus videoing and video sales for The Livestock Link.

We had 31 sales in 28 days in the month of February and that's only for Hereford America. The Livestock Link had 21 video sales in February.

Marc and I made it to many of these sales and now we get ready for March with just 17 sales for Hereford America. It's a lot of work and a lot of miles but also a lot of fun and we appreciate our advertisers and customers a great deal.

I think Hereford cattle are looking better than ever at the sales we've attended. The performance figures and EPDs continue to improve. Availability of videos and online sales continue to change the face of production sales across the country. It's an exciting time to be in the Hereford business and I think when the drought eases off, we'll really be in the driver's seat. Even with the current conditions, most sales were quite good.

Last fall, Marc and I received word that we were to receive a very nice honor in February. We were the recipients of the Black Hills Stock Show AgriBusiness of the Year for The Livestock Link. That presenta-

Ravine Creek Ranch: Rich in Hereford History, Strong on Breed Progress

by Celsey Crabtree

Ravine Creek Ranch has endured it all for 115 years. The Bischoff family roots run deep in the Hereford industry, starting with Gerald Bischoff's grand-

Gerald (Jerry) and Janelle Bischoff are at the heart of the ranch, leading the family operation. Jerry grew up around Hereford cattle and has always believed in their fertility, maternal traits, and breed standards. Janelle also comes from a farming and ranching background in the Chamberlain, SD area. Both are still very involved with all activities on the ranch and have been leaders in the Hereford breed and cattle industry.

Sons, Garret and Matt Bischoff work on the family ranch, helping make cattle and cropping decisions. In addition to farming about 1,200 acres of corn and soybeans, the Bischoffs do some custom planting and harvesting for neighbors. Matt also sells Pioneer seed and works through the Bauman Agency in Huron, where his wife is also a crop insurance agent. Garret founded L4L Sheep Company to raise, show, and sell high-quality crossbred club lambs. L4L, Love 4 Lisa, was named after their beloved aunt Lisa Johnson who was passionate about showing livestock. L4L Sheep Company offers multiple online sales throughout the year and has exceptional show stock.

father, Henry Bischoff who moved up from Nebraska and purchased the original 360 acres of Ravine Creek Ranch in 1906. Over the years, the ranch has grown to over 2500 acres, including those original 360 acres that corn, soybeans, hay and high-quality registered Hereford cattle. Family and cattle are essential to the Bischoffs. Multiple generations of their family have worked the ranch in east-central South Dakota and made numerous appearances in the show ring. This legacy continues as the fifth generation is becoming more involved in the cattle business.

From production to marketing, Ravine Creek Ranch is a family business.

Ravine Creek Ranch is located north of Huron, SD. They were a popular tour stop last fall on the South Dakota Hereford Tour.

Daughter Lori Peskey, her husband, Mike, and their kids live nearby on Peskey Farms. They sell bulls from their own registered Hereford herd at the family's sale. Peskey Farms also has a large commercial Angus herd that supplies most of the F1 baldies sold yearly in the production sale. Lori serves on the board of the South Dakota Hereford tion was made on February 2 in Rapid City, SD at the Buckles and Bling event.

We are so greatly humbled by this honor and would like to thank BHSS, their board and committee. It's an incredible award to receive and we greatly appreciate being selected. We've had several friends honored by BHSS and are proud to share in the fraternity with them. Also this year Linda and Ray Gilbert, who are from our county, were selected for the Producers of the Year. It was incredible to share the stage with these wonderful people as well. Thank you to my siblings Rich and Kathy Bayers, our nephew Ty, Marc's cousin Terry and his wife Beth and good friend Hugh Ingalls (Beth's dad) for sharing the evening with us. We were surprised by several customers and friends who attended.

A huge thank you to our staff and crew at The Livestock Link and Hereford America. We are truly blessed with a group of dedicated, talented people who work with and for us.

had the Grand and Reserve Champion Females at the South Dakota State Fair. The pair also were competitive in the speaking contests at Junior National and served at South Dakota Hereford Queens. All of their kids were active on the South Dakota Junior Hereford Association board of directors helping plan state events and culminating with planning the Junior National show in 2002. Association and industry involvement have also been very important to both Jerry and Janelle. Both served as junior advisors for the South Dakota Junior Hereford Association from 1993-to 2004. In addition, Jerry held three terms on the board of directors for the South Dakota Hereford Association Board, even as the organization’s president. Janelle has served as the parliamentarian for the National Hereford Women’s Board and editor of the newsletter. The Bischoffs still promote the breed when they can, being a part of the South Dakota Hereford Tours and welcoming guests to their ranch. The family’s continued involvement in the industry is what the Bischoffs are most proud of as they watch their grandchildren follow family tradition. Additionally, they have enjoyed meeting people from across the country, watching the Hereford breed become a popular breeding tool, and seeing breeders have success with the cattle they have produced.

The ranch has been expanding for several years, but the focus has remained the same: striving to improve their cattle and produce the “complete package.” They emphasize improving carcass traits, creating fault-free cattle, and producing a well-rounded bull to enhance customers’ progeny. Unfortunately, genetic defects have surfaced in the Hereford breed in the last few years. However, genetic testing has been an extremely valuable management tool. Ravine Creek utilizes DNA testing to detect and cull any possible carriers of the genetic issues, so their herd has endured.

With sons Matt and Garret and father Jerry working as a team, the ranch has increased and improved their artificial insemination (AI) and embryo transfer programs. As a result, the family has grown their Hereford numbers and the number of black cows used as embryo transfer recipients. Embryo transfer allows the ranch to use genetics from their superior females to get multiple calves a year. In addition, improving their breeding program has allowed the ranch to use the best possible genetics and produce exceptional progeny for their sales. Cattle pastures are all within 2022 will be the 17th year of the Ravine Creek Ranch production sale. The sale is held every year on the second Wednesday during March at the Magness Livestock Market in Huron, SD. If buyers aren’t able to attend, the sale is also hosted online at TheLivestock-Link.com.

The ranch is hoping to see another successful production sale in 2022. Through EPD selection, DNA testing, and visual appraisals, the family selects the best of their Hereford genetics for their program. Approximately 50 head of registered yearling and two-year-old bulls, 15-20 registered heifers, 20-25 commercial Hereford heifers, and black baldy replacement heifers will be selling this year. Jerry said, “We try to reach out and use bulls that we think will move our program in the right direction. We try to offer new genetics every year. That’s usually a highlight of our sale.”

Ravine Creek has developed an exceptional herd and maintains a very high standard for quality to keep customers happy and coming back. Jerry said, "After the sale, I deliver cattle to our customers. I really enjoy meeting customers and learning more about them and their needs." It is rewarding to the Bischoffs to see their cattle go into other herds, make advancements, and help improve their bottom line. By offering new genetics every year, the ranch is able to do just that for its customers. Their online heifer and embryo sale in October is another way they share their exceptional genetics. Using AI and embryo transfer, the ranch has been able to offer even more genetic variation to the public. The Bischoff's first online heifer sale was in 2020 to offer elite show heifers, embryos, and herd bull semen.

Beyond the success of their production sales, they have experienced wins in the show ring. Recent wins in the show ring include Reserve Champion Heifer and Grand Champion Bull at the South Dakota State Fair. Additionally, the ranch has been working toward nationally showcasing its genetics. They had a very successful 2020 & 2022 National Western Stock Show in Denver, CO, exhibiting the Reserve Champion Pen of spring bull calves both years. With grandkids in the show ring now, the family is excited to see the fifth generation show in 4-H and at the Junior National Hereford Expo. Connecting with other breeders at shows, making lifelong friends, has made an impact on Jerry and Janelle. One of their favorite aspects of attending shows and events is visiting with friends from all over the country that they may only get to see once a year.

Maintaining the ranch's legacy will fall to future generations despite the strong family history. Both Jerry and Janelle hope their family will remain passionate and pass it on to their grandchildren. Jerry stated, "Strong family support, a family that helps and is interested and wants to do the same thing," is crucial to maintaining a family operation. There will be challenges that arise in the industry as it is ever-changing. "We have to furnish cattle that will work for today's cattlemen. If we don't provide it, others will," exclaimed Jerry. This commitment to the future of the breed makes Ravine Creek Ranch a trusted and reliable source for remarkable Hereford Genetics.

"The beef industry must continue to tell our story, so the public understands what happens on the ranch. The Hereford breed is rich in tradition. But we can't live off of tradition. We have to get better constantly." — Jerry Bischoff

Final Farewell

Melvin Roghair

There were several loves in the life of Melvin Roghair of Okaton, SD, namely God, his wife, his family and Hereford cattle. His affair with the white-faced, red, gentle breed began at a very young age and lasted until his death on December 6, 2021 at the age of 84.

He married Clarice Caldwell of Wendte, SD on November 19, 1966. She brought one horse and 10 cows to the marriage, Herefords, of course. MH and CJ Roghair Herefords came into being not long after that and soon the Roghairs were lifetime members of the American Hereford Association.

Mel and Clarice worked hard to make their herd the best, buying good bulls from South Dakota breeders such as Wilmar Wuertzer, Leddy, Hovland and Reinhold as well as the most expensive purchase, "Nugget" (he was pricey) from Montana ranchers Courtney. About that time, the "bottom went out" of the Hereford market, poisoned grazing from knotweed and a shortage of good water nearly destroyed the Roghair herd, but only challenged MH and CJ to carry on the struggle.

As age claimed strength and hope for Mel and Clarice, the Hereford herd dwindled to a few head no one bothered to register, and it was assimilated into the herd of oldest son, Marty.

However, the reverse RC brand marked the handmade casket at Mel's funeral on December 27th. The casket was carried on a wagon pulled by youngest son Lonnie's team across Mel's beloved "Creek Pasture" north of Okaton. Family brands of the Roghair's seven children were also burned into the sides of the casket. The entourage to the Plum Thicket Hill family cemetery was made up of Mel's six sons, numerous grandkids and a riderless horse. It is said the riderless horse is "reserved for the funeral processions of extraordinary individuals — high ranking military officials, presidents, secretary of defense, and cowboys." The outpouring of love and sympathy for the family left behind definitely portrays that Melvin H. Roghair was an extraordinary cowboy.

A typical obituary would list all the great things the deceased accomplished and all the boards he served on as well as where he went to school, military service, survivors, etc. If one really wants to know all that, visit rushfuneralhome.com. You can check out a really great slide show there, also.

There is no doubt in my mind that when Mel "entered the pearly gates", he heard his Savior say, "well done, good and faithful servant." And then the old Hereford man knelt at the feet of Jesus and praised Him for everlasting life.

— Clarice Roghair

hard-working, honest, family and cattleman. He was always striving to improve his ranch through land and cattle. His great knowledge will be missed by many. George never knew a stranger. George was recognized for many things but being selected to the Hereford Hall of Fame in Kansas City and having the ranch chosen for the 2020 Wyoming Environmental Stewardship Award were among his favorites. George was involved with many ag-related organizations and church. George's great insight, love of life, love of family and friends, will be missed by many. His legacy will continue through his children and grandchildren. His final words would be: "Now everyone get out and get to work."

Jackie Buckley Named NDSU Saddle and Sirloin Club Agriculturalist of the Year

By Emily Beal
AgWeek

FARGO, N.D. — From Little International princess to agriculturalist of the year, Jackie Buckley had a full-circle moment at this year's 96th Little International that was held on North Dakota State University's campus in mid-February.

Buckley has spent her entire life in North Dakota's agricultural industry. Growing up on her family's farm (Fisher Herefords) she was immersed in the industry at a young age. Her family's operation encompassed registered Hereford cattle and small grains. Being the oldest of five girls, she took on additional responsibilities on the farm.

"Being the oldest of five daughters, I was my dad's hired man on the farm," Buckley said. "I was raking hay, hauling bales, running the combine, driving the truck or whatever other duties needed to be completed."

During her youth, Buckley was an active 4-H member, being a part of the organization for 10 years. She showed Hereford cattle at her county fair as well as the North Dakota State Fair. She has fond memories of her time within the organization.

Following high school graduation, Buckley enrolled at North Dakota State University, where she majored in animal science and minored in food nutrition and agriculture communication. She graduated from the institution in 1979. During her time at NDSU she was a member of the Saddle and Sirloin Club, where she held several officer positions. She also showed animals in the Little International and was even a Little International princess, where she advocated for North Dakota agriculture. She also received the club's outstanding senior award.

After her college graduation, Buckley went back home to the farm.

"I went home for the summer, not really knowing what I was going to do. I saw an ad in the paper for an assistant county agent," Buckley said.

While she did not get that initial position, Buckley eventually did get hired as an assistant county agent, which started an illustrious career in NDSU Extension that would span 37 years. Buckley greatly enjoyed her years in Extension, but was not always met with open arms, especially in the early years of her career.

"In 1979, it wasn't the time for a woman to be applying for a male-orientated career. So it was a hard pull convincing people that I could do the job. It produced some challenges, but it ended up being a great career as an Extension agent," Buckley said. "In the beginning I caught a lot of grief from producers and the other ag agents thinking I could not do the job."

The bulk of Buckley's work in Extension took place in Morton County, where she worked for 26 years. Her dedication to the community and agriculture industry during her career made her an obvious choice for the Little International's agriculturalist of the year.

"Agriculture more times than not, it's pretty quiet. There's a lot of people in the background that are doing so much for the ag industry, North Dakota ag and North Dakota youth especially that a lot of people don't get recognition for it. I think giving the opportunity to give back to them for what they have done for us is a really big deal," said Hope Willson, the 96th Little In-

For Buckley, being named agriculturalist of the year was an apt honor, one that made her cry.

“Jackie has been involved in the ag industry for her whole life,” Willson said “It’s a great honor to give back to her after everything she has done for North Dakota agriculture and for North Dakota’s youth.”

Heart City Bull Bash Main Event in Valentine

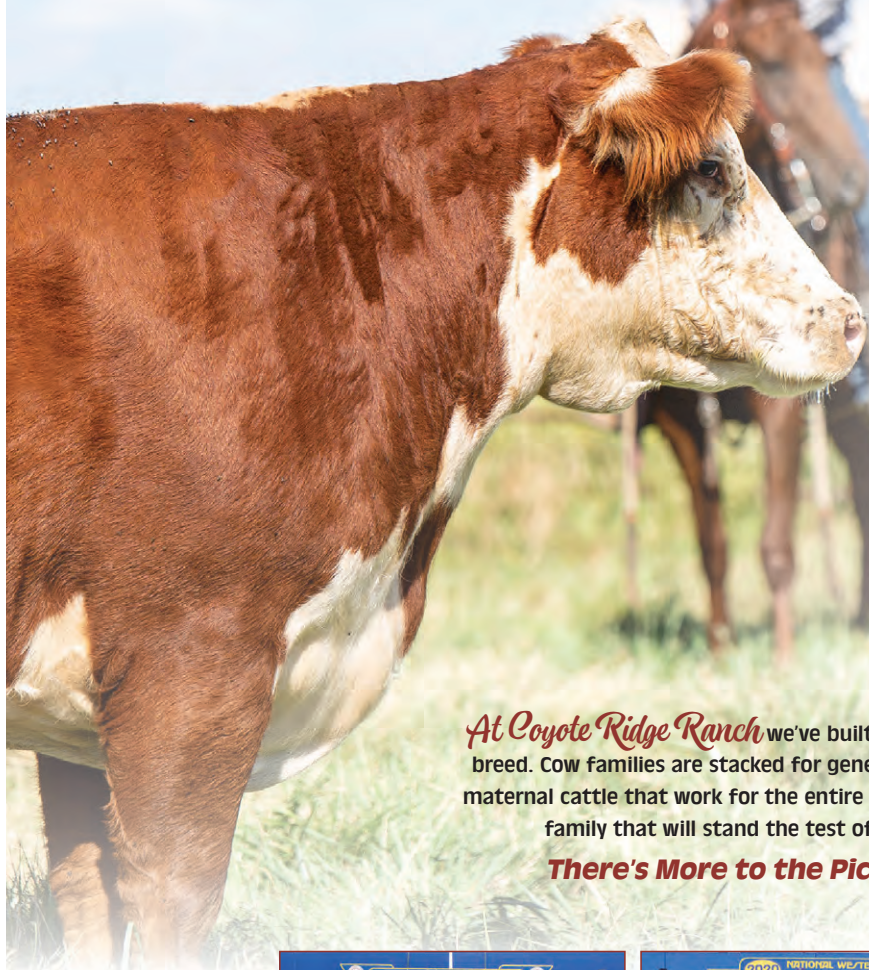

Valentine Nebraska rolled out the red carpet once again for the 21st annual Heart City Bull Bash. Kicking off the activities on Friday, February 11th was livestock judging held at the Valentine Livestock Auction. According to Brent Nollette, organizer of the day long event, “The livestock judging went well. We had just under 200 participants from six states. “4-H, FFA and college students judged.

Saturday, February 12th started with a chilly morning but warmed up throughout the day. Seventeen cattle producers exhibited 25 pens of bulls and heifers. Also on display were two pens of quarter horses and a pen with mules. Eleven commercial exhibits were present and featured among the cattle pens. All the exhibits were downtown on the Main Street. Attendees were treated to seeing the animals up close and many other activities were held as well including a quilt show, 5KRun/Walk, 4-H Luck of the Draw, dummy roping and wine tasting.

Later in the afternoon a forum was held at the Valentine Livestock Auction. Three candidates for Nebraska governor and two candidates for the Nebraska state Board of Education attended. A nice sized crowd of voters turned out. Following that was a Cowboy Church Service and it was very well attended by locals.

The day capped off with a concert at the Valentine High School Auditorium by Becky Schlegel and the Traveling Opry Show. This event was co-sponsored by the Valentine Arts Council. Committee chairman, Shane Keller commented “The weather was nice enough to make it enjoyable for numerous people to be out and take it all in.

The cattle industry was well represented on Main Street and viewed by many. The many events were well attended and good reports on sales from businesses.”

Byron's Classics

Here is a classic reprint of a Byron Bayers editorial from March 2015. This happens to be one of my favorites.

— Jill

It seems like the whole world is in turmoil today. There are events like the terrible things that happened in France recently, and it seems these days the world has been in turmoil for many years. The turmoil seems to be getting worse and we can't help but think back about the devastation that hit us on 9/11. It seems like in my lifetime we have been constantly at war with somebody and we are always fighting the bad guys.

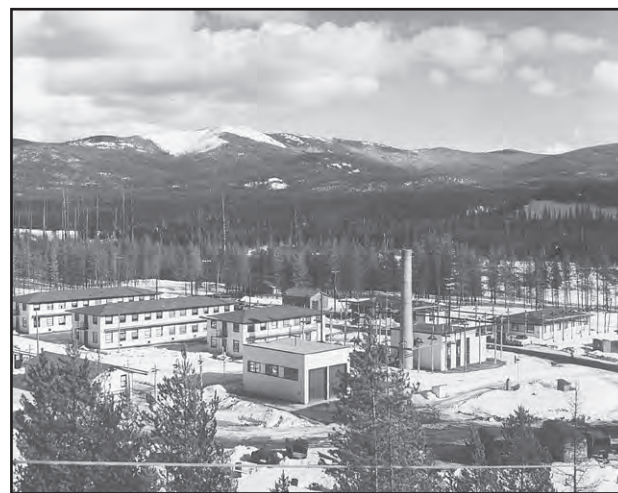

As I think back about some of the connections I've had over the years with wars we should be thankful for all the men and women who served their country for so many years to defend our way of life. I was in Arizona a few weeks ago and I went down to the area south of Casa Grande and this brought back some old memories about people who fight and defend our country.

As a young man in my teens, I attended the University of Montana. During orientation time I ran into a young freshman man and we became immediate friends while visiting. He was a big guy about 6 feet 3 inches tall and he weighed about 225 pounds, a solid muscled guy with a big grin, but you knew he was all business. At freshman orientation we got talking about where we came from, what we had done and what our goals were for college. He told me that he was one of the first students in the new US Forest Service group that was being organized to jump (parachute) fire fighters into the mountains in the Northwest to fight and contain fires, this was a new program for the Forest Service and up until this time all of the fire fighters had to hike to the fires and in many cases it was a long hike, taking a long period of time, and sometimes they would lose control of the fire before the fire fighters could get to it.

It was interesting to me to have this conversation with my new friend because I had been recruited in high school for the same job and I was very interested in doing it, but my Dad vetoed the idea saying I was needed to work on the ranch in the summers not go off to fight fires. From now on in this story I will refer to my friend as "Scar" because, for security reasons, I don't want to use his real name.

During our time at the University of Montana, Scar would be gone from school for extended periods of time, when he would come back to school, of course, we would ask where he had been and what he had been up to, he always gave vague answers and said he was off earning more money to pay for school. Both Scar and I were to graduate at the same time but because of my commitment to the Air Force and what Scar was doing, neither one of us could participate in the actual graduation ceremony.

I went right into Air Force duty and served some time in Texas, was transferred to Washington and then my final assignment took me to an isolated radar site at Yaak, MT.

Yaak was a smaller unit with only one squadron. We were there for early warning purposes and we also had intercept capabilities, which meant if we picked up a bogey on a radar we could scramble fighters out of the base in Spokane to intercept them; this was at a time when we were very concerned about aggression from Russia.

My job was multipurpose, I was in charge of the Air Police unit on the base, which included perimeter security, logistics for the base, and because of the work I was doing I had "Secret Clearance." I finished my time in the Air Force and was released from active duty, went on to reserve status and came back to the ranch.

I had not heard from Scar since going into the Air Force, but some of my friends told me that periodically he came back to Missoula, like he did during college days, and still had the same vague answers to his activities.

After a few years back from the service I was receiving some flight instruction at Johnson Flying Service in Missoula. At this time Johnson Flying Service was in a world of their own because they were the first air service that was flying into the back country of the Northwest delivering supplies to the people who were fighting fires. Johnson got a good reputation worldwide as one of the great flying services, they had airplanes from very small utility airplanes to the big old multi-engine bombers and cargo/passenger planes.

Bob Johnson, who was one of the Johnson brothers, was one of the great pilots in the United States and I've received much of my flight instruction advice from him. Johnson Flying Service at the time had one of the only air carrier permits in the United States which was not owned by one of the major airlines. Of course, along with the permit, was Johnsons' expertise in the knowledge of flying anywhere, anytime, under any conditions.

About two years after I had done some of my aeronautical work with Johnson's Flying Service I got a phone call from Scar and we asked each other how each of us was doing and what was going on. Now, all Scar would tell me was that he was busy at a flying job which took him all over the world but he would not tell me anymore which was usual for Scar. However, Scar did ask what I knew about a young guy I will call "Tiger," again for security reasons. Scar wanted to know what I knew about Tiger since he had been told by Tiger that he grew up in Twin Bridges and that he knew me very well. Scar asked me a lot of questions about Tiger, his personality, his loyalty and many other things that he thought I might know about Tiger as a young man. Scar told me, "We have to know everything about a person before hiring and it is always good to get background from someone who has known him from childhood to adulthood." When we were done discussing Tiger, Scar and I talked about a few other things and I told him I hoped it would not be too long before we talked again. We said goodbye and I hoped everything would go okay with Scar.

Shortly thereafter I learned from Tiger's family that he had accepted a flying job but there were no other details available. The operation would be something secret because Scar wouldn't tell me too much about it.

About a year after, I got another call from Scar and he wondered if I would be interested in going in with him to buy Johnson Flying Service. Scar said, "You know the operation, I know the operation very well, and the air carrier certificate is one of the big things that we need in our business for it to work, and I need somebody like you to go in with me to buy it, what do you think?"

I was in somewhat of a shock because I had never thought of trying to buy into Johnson Flying Service and I had no idea I would ever be involved in such a big operation. I told Scar that I would have to look into it and see if it were possible to raise that kind of money. Scar told me that the money was available and that would not be of concern. I also told Scar that I would talk to him later and would he call me back within about a week and we will talk a little more about it then.

Going through my mind was just what is Scar into, and what is he working on, because knowing Johnson Flying Service would be good and could be an international operation, and with all the things that Scar wouldn't tell me about the last few years, I had to believe that this was a covert operation he was into. I would have to do some talking to my wife about this involvement. Pauline and I decided that the amount of money involved, even though available, would be a far reach for us at the time, even though with my interest in flying it was certainly very interesting, but it was really very, very interesting to me to hear again from Scar and to wonder what he was headed for and what we might find out later. After due consideration, I had to decline the offer....

April/May issue.

OUR MOST ACCURATE “REPORT CARD”

comes from our customers

Seedstock production isn't a one size fits all business. Our commercial customers make selections based on needs for their specific operations. It's our job to consider all the variables as we make breeding decisions. We rely on “report cards” from our commercial customers to make certain we produce cattle that fit all environments, across all production sectors.

“Sandhill bulls have added value to our program not only as calf producers but past the yearling stage. We have seen a marked advantage in our weaning weights as well as our rate of gain as stockers. These improvements have been the key factor in our decision to purchase bulls from Sandhill Farms every year for the past 8 years.”
